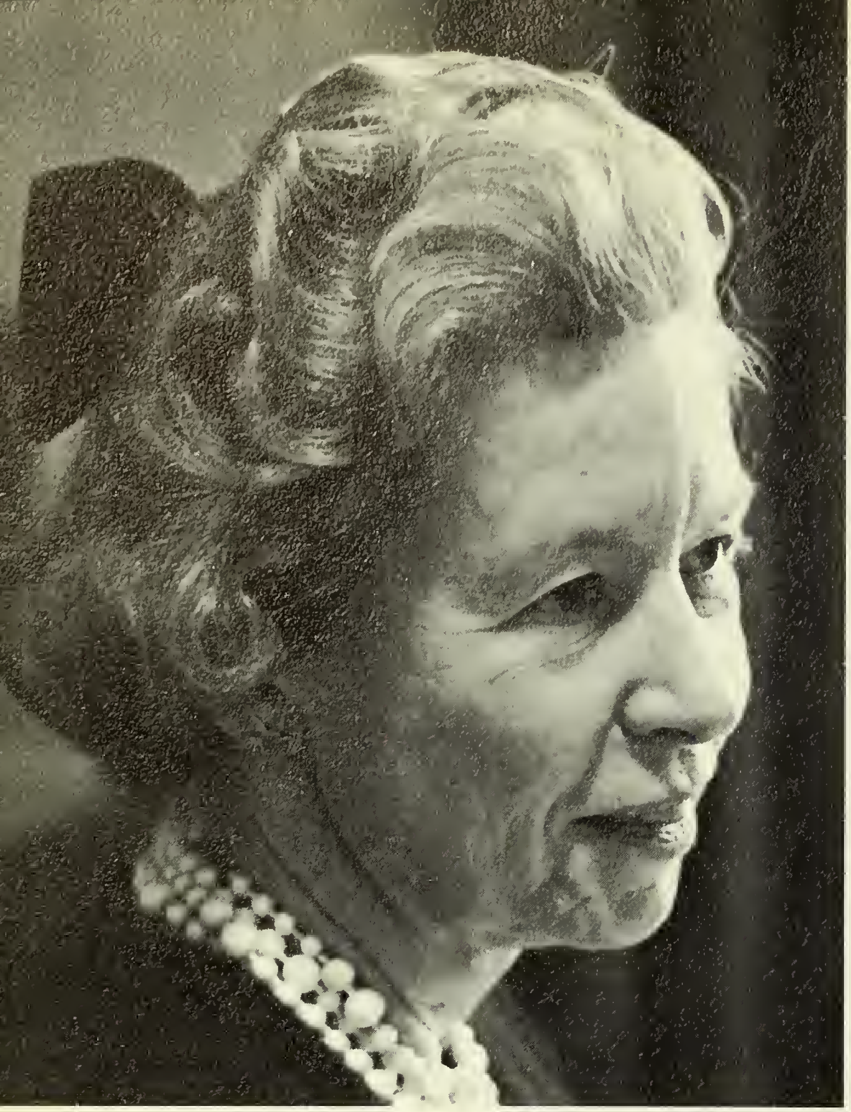
ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY



ROSEMARY PARK
PRESIDENT OF BARNARD COLLEGE
DEAN IN THE UNIVERSITY

Knowing the vagaries of the critical intelligence which we have sharpened for you, we hope that you will never turn it in destructiveness against yourselves but rather use it to achieve in your lives a deeper sense of common aspiration within your society than we sense today. Then indeed you would know the success and happiness we all wish for you.

CAMPUS

This year was very much like every other year at Barnard. There were teas, coffee hours, and Thursday noon meetings. One year of the science requirement was dropped, the Zoology and Botany departments were combined, and a tuition increase was announced. Some professors retired, others just left. New faculty members arrived to fill in the ranks, and the College proceeded to "carry on."

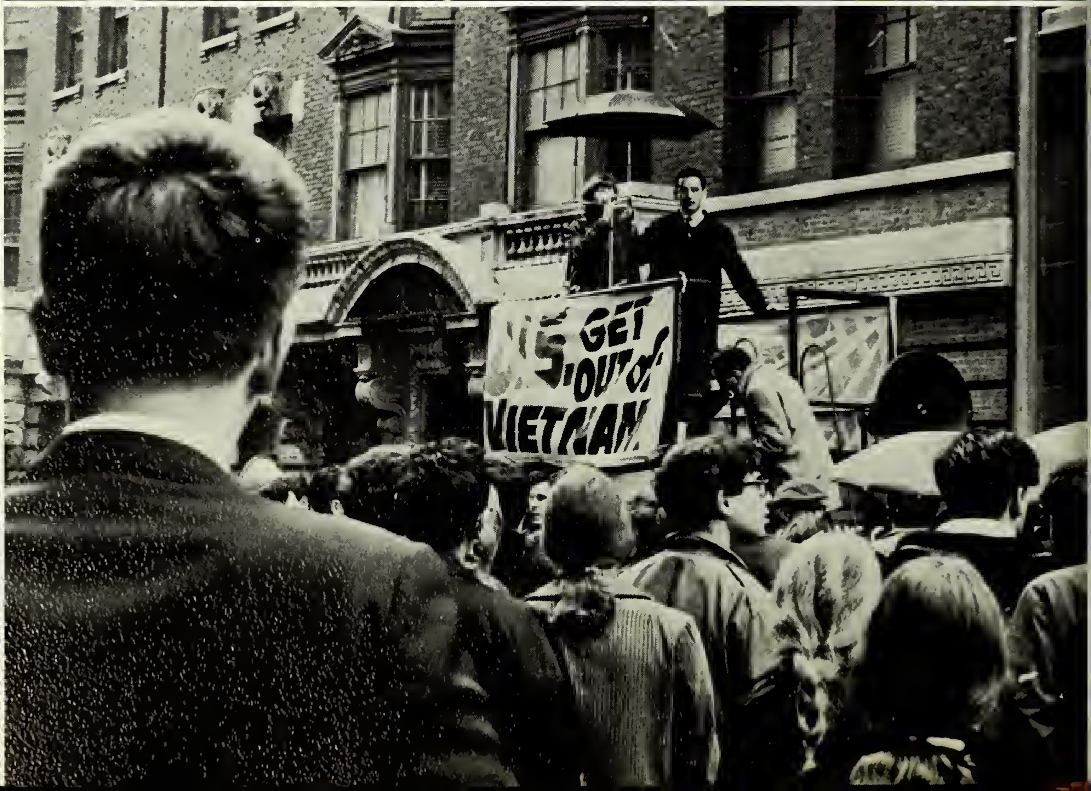
LINDSAY
FOR MAYOR



U.S. GET OUT OF VIETNAM

Our laboratory, New York City, endured several cataclysmic events, among which were the election of a Republican mayor, a blackout of electric power in the northeast one week after the election, and a transit strike.

Vigorous civil rights demonstrations gave way to vigorous protests against foreign policy. However apathetic the Barnard student body may be, one subject not pertaining to studies affected every undergraduate—Vietnam. The war in Vietnam is being fought by our friends, cousins, fiances, brothers, husbands—by this generation. Whether to withdraw or bomb Hanoi, negotiate or escalate, the fact is that it is our generation that will suffer.

This was a somber year.

Barnard girls were no different this year, and mass enthusiasm for anything failed to materialize. For those students who cared, there were clubs, societies, boards, publications and councils to join.

And the pulse of campus life continued at its accustomed stately pace.

All students of Barnard College become members of the AABC on graduation. There are no dues and many privileges in being a member of the Association. To mention a few—the Alumnae Magazine will be sent to each member four times during a year. Many Barnard classes are open to you for auditing. The services of the Placement Office are available. In the fall watch the mails for more information on what the Alumnae Association can mean to you.
